MAGNATES BEGIN AGAIN.

IF VON DER HORST IS PACIFIED, THERE MAY BE PLAIN SAILING. The Situation Gradually Shifting Around to the New York Club, as Freedman Has Promised to Strengthen His Team at Any Cost, Under Certain Conditions. The payment of the $500 Wrigley fine by the Brooklyn Baseball Club without the consent H. R. Von der Horst who holds 40 per cent. of the stock and still maintains that the matter should have been taken into the courts, has started the wheels of the League Circuit Committee resolving once more with the idea of bringing about the withdrawals of four cities. Chairman Brush and James A. Hart, the Western members of the committee, have sent word to Eastern magforty-eight hours to talk business with the Brooklyn-Baltimore syndicate. This shows how effectively the Brooklyn club tied up the Circuit Committee when the announcement was made that the Wrigley fine would not be raid. Baseball is in such a muddled way just now, however, that the Brooklyn club is receiving much praise for its broad-minded move. While it has been said that the club over the Bridge surrendered to Freedman, who had threatened to bar the Champions and Bal-timores out of the Polo Grounds next season

if the Wrigley fine was not paid, those who know the motives of Abell and Hanlon think is a much different aspect to the case. Abell has believed all along that an opportunity should be given to Freedman to build up the game once more at the Polo Grounds, regardless of personal grievances and expense. As Freedman has openly declared that he will not make a move to put a good basebail team in the field until syndicate ball is abolished, until the circuit is reduced to eight clubs, and until several other conditions have been fuifilled, Abell is of the opinion that the Brooklyn club can not retain the support of the pubhe and the press of the country if it blocks Freedman's path in any way. In other words, the Brooklyn club believes it expedient to narrow the situation down to Freedman, so that the latter can demonstrate to his fellow magnates that he is sincere in his statements. magnates that he is sincered in his statements.

The majority stockholders in the Brooklyn Club have, therefore, decided to accede to the demand of Freedman that synticate ball be abolished and that the circuit be reduced to eight clubs. They stand ready to dispose of the Baltimore franchise on terms that they conore than fair, inasmuch as they are will abolished and that the arrent to readuces to eight clubs. They stand ready to dispose of the Ealtimore franchise on terms that they consider more than fair, inasmuch as they are willing to make them public when the proper time arrives. In order to get Baltimore out of the circuit, the Boston, New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Chicago, Pittsburg, Cincinnati and St. Louis clubs, who will compose the new eight-club circuit, must consent to put up an amount of money, or rather turn over a percentage of the gate receipts for the next two years. Freedman has already informed his friends, Brush, Soden, Rogers and others, that the New York club will agree to any reasonable financial arrangements. Therefore, when the Circuit Committee gets everything in shape. Freedman's ratification will probably be sought after.

With the obstacles out of the way, it will then be up to Freedman to strenthen the New Yorks. The only available players who can make the club have a chance in the new circuit are the property of the Baltimore club. By securing McGraw, Robinson, McGinnity, Kitson, Brodie and Sheckard, the New Yorks, with Doyle, Gleason, Davis, Van Haltren, Seymour, Doheny, Carrick, Warner and Grady alroady in line, would be very formidable. Under the probable disposition of the Baltimore franchise, however, McGraw and the other stars will be the temporary property of the Barooklyn club to dispose of as the management may see fit. No club in the League is expected to hand over valuable players to Freedman for nothing, so that it will be necessary for the New York President to put up quite a sum of money to build up the game which he receives credit for having intentionally killed here.

If Ewing is to manage the New Yorks, however, it is pretty sale to say that McGraw, who is probably the most valuable ball player in the country, will not be wanted. Brush of Cincinnati and Hart. All of these points show that the time is not far off when the New York Club will be compelled to show its hands. But while, the magnates now believe the courts. It is believed that Von der Horst will be much displeased when he learns of the action of his partners. The sale of the Baltimore franchise cannot be consummated without Von der Horst's consent, and as he owns nearly half of the stock in thet club, it can be seen that the magnates will first be compelled to pacify Von der Horst before the Circuit Committee can talk actual figures. Abell and Hanton, especially the latter, have a great deal of influence with Von der Horst, and they will probably try to turn him around. But if he adheres to the statements he has made to The Sun, there may be a hot time before anything of moment can be accomplished.

made to THE SUN, there may be a not time before anything of moment can be accomplished.

The Circuit Committee will not hold a regular meeting here until enough facts regarding the demands of the Louisville, Cleveland, Washington and Baltimore clubs are secured to make some sort of a report to the League, Just when the latter will convene depends entirely upon the ability of the Circuit Committee to straighten out the tangle, but predictions are made that all of the magnates will be here on or about Jan. 20. There is no doubt that the talk of a basebal' war has brought the League men to their senses. It turns out now, however, that President Johnson, who was full of flight on last Monday, appears to have been called down, for he says that while the American League is liable to "break away from the protection of the National League, it has not done so yet, although the delegates to the conference at Chicago on Monday voted to declare war."

Crescents Beat the Naval Battalion Easily in a League Game.

The opening of the championship season of the Amateur Hockey League at the Clermont avenue ice rink, Brooklyn, last night was not in any way notable save for the poor exhibition of the First Naval Battalion team. The latter played with four of its original league seven absent and was forced to take on substitutes. The result was a defeat at the hands of the Crescent A. C. men by a score of 11 to 0. At the face-off Kennedy got the sphere for the Crescents and passed it to Dobby, who tried for goal and was blocked by Post of the Brooklyn A minute later Wall got the disk from Dobby on a lightning pass sideways and scored a fine goal straight through the posts. The Crescents then had things their own way. They nates that they will be here within man up nine goals in the first half and two in the second, letting up on their opponents, whom they had tired chasing the rubber.

Speculation on the Dixon-McGovern Fight.

A number of wagers were recorded yesterday on the result of the Dixon-McGovern fight, which is to take place at the Broadway A. C. next Tuesday night. The fact that McGovern rules a 1 to 2 shot has opened the eyes of many of the admirers of Dixon and they are seizing the opportunity to get down good bets on the colored champion. Toin O'Rourke, seeing that he can not get 10 to 4 for his money, made two bets yesterday of $500 to $1,000. "Buck" complay with some friends, went to see Dixon at Lakewood yesterday. Commodore Porter Had Things His Own Way When Jersey Trotter Turned Up. Horsemen who jogged their trotters and pacers up to Speedway Park yesterday witnessed fine sport. The warm snap brought out a big crowd, in which were many notable horses. Cobwebs, 2:12, was there, and so was Baylight, 2:33%, the big, brawny trotter from New Brunswick that swept the Speedway one Sunday morning last month. They call him Jersey Lightning now. There was much disappointment that Baylight and Cobwebs did not come together, but Nathan Straus found the weather too cold for comfort and started Cobwebs homeward after sending him up the road and back again at top speed. The champion of 1809 had his trotting shoes on and made a brilliant rush or two which captivated everybody.

Soon after Cobwebs departed Baylight came on. He was hooked to a sixty-pound pneumatic wagon. In it was George A. Coleman. who tips the beam at 285 pounds. Commodore Porter, 2:13, was having things all his own way when Baylight turned up. The long-backed son of Nutwood had just trimmed as Drex, 2:164; N. T. B., 2:274, and others, Hugh Riley, the owner of the gallant trotter, was in high glee, ready to take a fall out of Cobwebs or anything that wore a harness. He got a fall when Coleman bantered him for a brush with Baylight. The Jersey wonder turned with the Commodore at the bend and they got away on even terms. Before a furlong had been "A change in Columbia's rowing policy is imperative. The indoor work of this year will be started on entirely new lines. At the present time Columbia is the only rowing university which has not a system of class crews. Harvard, Yale, Cornell, and University of Pennsylvania all have captains elected by the class, whose duty it is to attend to the calling out of material, and who have charge of the crews belonging to his class under the supervision of the regular coach and the captain of the 'Varsity crew. By this system every student in the university receives an opportunity to learn how to row. He gets individual attention daily by a competent coach, he gets an opportunity to represent his class in the class regattas and finally receives a chance by hard work to make his way into the final race in June.

"This will be Columbia's rowing policy in 11000 With the lacilities offered, a boathouse full of all kinds of boats, a chance for everyone to row in a race and ample inflividual coaching, it is hoped that the new system will not merely mark a change in policy, but a change in the spirit of the undergraduates toward rowing. All Columbia's crew needs is the encouragement like that so generously given to the football team last fall."

BAYLIGHT SWEEPS THE SPEEDWAY NEWS OF THE WHEELMEN.

SOUND REASONS WHY THE OUTLOOK FOR CYCLING IS BRIGHT.

Vice-President Morseles Discusses Facts

and Figures Entertainingly - Century Wheelmen Have Quit the L. A. W-The Good Roads Association Is Booming. There appears to be an increasing cheerfulness and confidence in the bicycle trade when considering the outlook for the year to come. The months in which selling is dead have passed, and although there are dreary days to come in which the roads will be covered with mud and snow and slush, they will be days when both wholesalers and retailers will be up and doing. Active selling of new models begins with the show, whether the weather permits of riding or not. After the annual exhibition at Madison Square Garden plenty to do, even though February and March bring blizzards. The confidence now to be found is a natural growth upon the business of last year, when the trade settled down to a hard commercial basis after a couple the wings of D. Lamar's brown pacer Steel of years of boom and a couple more Prince, 2:07%, and had played with such horses of decline. That the formation and policy of the American Bicycle Company has been a factor in the brightening of the prospect is conceded by many. Theodore F. Merseles, Vice-President of the company, in an interview furnishes some excellent reasons why the outlook should be bright. According to his reports from all over the country the advance sales of wheels received up to the third week in Becember, 18-9, surpassed those of the previous year by more than 85 per cent. Mr. Merseles backed this statement by exhibiting, but not for publication, the reports of the several branches of the sales department. The orders were not confined to any particular line or groups of wheels, but were as diversified as to make and grade as in other years. Among many things Vice-President Merseles said:

"The question of bicycle prospects for season of 1900 must be taken from the wholesale standpoint, because it is the only one thus early in the season which will furnish figures for an intelligent forecast. We are able to compare the figures for orders received up to Dec. 23, 1899, with those for the same period last year, with the result wonderfully in favor of

"Agents seem practically unanimous in prospecting that the coming year will be an exceptionally good one. This is amply borne out by the size of sample orders. In other words, where an agent ordered twenty bicycles last year to begin the season with, he this year starts out with nearly double that number without any special inducements having been made to place stock orders. Agents Jo not buy readily in a bad year. They are in the best position to judge of the sentiment in their own districts. Their advance orders are the outcome of interested canvass of the several localities in which they do business.

"I will add that the cause of the increased advance orders appears to be the result of an augmented confidence on the part of agents, due largely to the existence of the American Bicycle Company. The removal of certain conditions strengthens the market. Agents know they can safely deal with a company whose financial standing is not only above question, but is material, not mystical, nor taken on faith.

"As the agent in forming his opinion relies entirely upon public sentiment it is really the public's confidence that is manifested in the tionally good one. This is amply borne out by

"As the agent in forming his opinion relies entirely upon public sentiment it is really the public's confidence that is manifested in the large advance sales. To any thinking person it must occur that if ever it were advantageous to a concern to exercise the greatest care for the quality of the goods issued from its factories, it is so with the American Bicycle Company."

The news created a mild sensation when it was not altogether without warding, as one of the club's representatives, Matthew Gibb, had salidated the law to the law of the club's reparatives, but it was announced yesterday by the Century wheelmen of New York that the club had formally severed its relations should be made and properly as a "League Club." This action was taken at a meeting held on Monday night, by a vote of $1.05. The news created a mild sensation when it was not altogether without warding, as one of the club's reparatives, but it was announced yesterday by the Century wheelmen of New York It is understood that the most weighty reason was that the club thought it could get along better without paying several hundred dollars to the League every year. The Century Wheelmen in December had 349 members. It is one of the large clubs of the city and is influential. It is the second large cycling organization in New York to put aside its character as a League club, the Harlem Wheelmen being the first. Secretary. Treasurer W.S. Bull of the L. A. W. said yesterday: "This action is not so much of a blow to the League as it is likely to be thought by many who fall to understand what a League club is. The L. A. W. is not composed of clubs or other organizations, but any club that pledges itself to always see that three-fourths of its members are also L. A. W. members becomes a League club and as such is entitled to personal representation upon the State board of officers. A club of twenty members is entitled to have one representatives sit with those regularly elected from different districts of the State. For eighty members a League club is entitled to two representatives and beyond that to one delegate for each 100 additional members. The club, by ceasing to be a League club, loses its direct influence in the hoard of officers, but the League does not necessarily lose any, members because that is a matter for the individuals who hold membership to decide when the time comes for them to renew."

A called meeting of the Board of Governors of the Automobile Club was held on Monday night and the discussion of affairs and projects for the future continued for three and a half hours. It was an executive session, and after the adjournment Vice-President George F. Chamberlain, who is acting President, said that plans for an annual dinner had been outlined, and future runs, the country club house, charging stations and other matters considered, but that no dates had been fixed. The list of standing committees has been revised owing to the election of nearly forty new members. Regarding the international race for the challenge cup, matters are now satisfactorily understood and there is no doubt but that this country will be ably represented when the event is run next summer.

At this meeting, which will be attended by the Supervisors from all over the State, the Highle-Armstrong bill will be discussed, and it is expected that the Legislature will be requested to set aside an appropriation of $1,000,000 for good roads, instead of $50,000 as was done last year. A new Bridge Committee was appointed as follows: Fullerton, La Manna. Valentine, Angel and Schwalbach. Word was received from Park Commissioner Brower that he would rebuild the old eyele path entirely for next season and that Improvements would be made in the new or return path. President Bell will give a dinner to the good road workers at the Hanover Ciub in February. It was the largest and most enthusiastic meeting held for two years.

Preparing for the U. S. G. A. Meeting-The Game Popular in Texas.

Usually the annual meeting of the U. S. G. A. has been he'd during the week of Washington's Birthday, but this year the date is Feb. 24, and the place Delmonico's. In accordance with the resolution passed at the last annual meeting. Secretary Kerr has sent queries to each of the associate clubs asking their wishes in regard to the place and time for the different championships of next season. The revised St. Andrew's rules will go into effect at the meeting and it will probably be left to the delegates to decide if it will be best to have a committee interpret them, although under the constitution this is one of the duties of the Executive Committee.

To-morrow the annual meeting of the Country club will be held at Lakewood. It is proposed to make considerable changes on the links early in the spring and the plans for the improvements will probably be neted on at the meeting. Arthur B. Claffin, chairman of the Golf Committee, intends to spend two months on Jekyl Island at the noted club for golf, shooting and fishing off the coast of Georgia, and it is expected that E. Robbins Walker, who is also on the Golf Committee, will take Ciafin's place for the time being at least. Texas is the larest State to take up golf. The game was introduced there by Frank A. Wal-thew last summer, who found a ready support when he broached the idea of a golf club to the men he met at Galveston. Although only started in August the Galveston Golf Club has them last summer, who found a ready support when he broughed the idea of a golf club to the men he met at Galveston. Although only started in August the Galveston Golf Club has sixty-five members, a commodious clubhouse in bungalow style, and a nine-hole links, on the shore of the Gulf of Mexico, just outside the city. The upper story of the clubhouse is reserved for the women, who are as keen on the game as the men. The house is so close to the shore that a sait-water bath is to be enjoyed after a round, in winter as well as in summer. The forts of Camp Hawley, the United States military reservation, are on the Gulf shore near the links, which extend back and adjoin the Government line. The links is laid out over rolling prairie land, a slough crossing the ground and forming a hazard at varying distances for several of the holes. As soon as the rough growth was mowed down a natural growth of Bermuda grass was revealed, covering the ground with a matted turf three or four inches thick, which no amount of play can make an impression on. This was a great boom, for, if it could endure frost, this grass would be used extensively on northern links, and it accounts for the fact that the Galvestonians were able to open their course within a month after it had been planned. The putting greeus, however, have all been sodded. On the opening day, using the temporary greens, the first round was played by Frank A. Walthew and Mungo Park, the professional, when the amateur made 12, the record. The full length of the course is 2,575 yards, the order of the holes being: 300, 190, 200, 375, 180, 250, 190, 475 and 415 yards. Since the opening of the links courses have been laid out at Dallas, Waco, Austin, Paris, Houston and San Antonio, During the winter a Texas golf association is to be started to promote interclub competitions. A number of the links have been laid out by Mungo Park, who is a brother of the celebrated player, Willie Park, Jr., and who was George Low's predecessor at the Dyker Meadow Golf Club. The Oleander is

Will Smith, the open champion, is stopping with George Low at Fort Hamilton, but he will soon start for a southern trip with W. V. Hoare, professional of the Dayton, Ohio, Golf Club, and one of the strongest of the younger set of players, Smith and Hoare will be at Aiken about Jan. 12 and will wind up their journey in Florida. Another professional note is that the West Coast Golf Association has appointed Lancelot C. Servos, formerly at the Hot Springs, Va., links, professional at the Bellair links, Florida.

Stamford, Jan. 4.—The annual meeting of the Wee Burn Golf Club was held last night at the Clubhouse, Noroton. The ticket elected was a duplicate of last year's, as follows: President, John D. Crimmins: Vice-President, Charles Stewart Smith; Secretary, Walter X. Capen; Treasurer, Wilson L. Baldwin; Captain, Alfred S. Pitt; Board of Governors, John D. Crimmins, Charles Stewart Smith, Walter N. Capen, Wilson L. Baldwin, Alfred S. Pitt, Edward E. Bruggerhoff, Archibald H. Smith, John Henry Huriburt, Malcolm R. Pitt, Walter D. Diskam and Harvey L. Williams. The Greens Committee and the Handicap Committee are appointed by the President. At present, E. E. Pruggerhoff, Wilson L. Baldwin and A. H. Smith, comprise the Greens Committee, and J. H. Huributt, M. R. Pitt and H. L. Williams the Handicap Committee. It was decided to have the club incorporated and the following amendments to the constitution were adopted:

adopted:
Article 5, Section 1—This section to be emitted and the following substituted: "The management of this club shall be invested in a Board of Governors, which shall consist of fifteen members, five of whom shall be selected each year for a term of three years. For the beard elected in 1900 the term of service shall be determined by lot." Section 2—The Board of Governors at its first meeting after the Board of Governors at its first meeting after the annual, shall elect from its own number a President, the President, Secretary, Treasurer and Captain, to hold office for one year or until their successors are elected and have qualified.

Actuele 6, Section 2—Omit the following words: "and matched and keep a record of, all scores and competitors in all club competitions." Section 4—Omit the following words: "and his decision in all club matches shall be final." Section 5—Add the following words: "They may make, amend or modify any rules and they may also fill any vacancy in their board by vote."

The latest English papers received here say that the committee of management of the Henley regatta has submitted its report for the year to the stewards, which shows that in order to meet the expenses of the partial boompetitors, a heavy draft on the reserve fund was necessary. At the beginning of the year there necessary. At the beginning of the year there was a balance in hand of nearly $1,250, hesides which the stewards had nearly $1,250, hesides which the stewards had nearly $1,300 invested in consols. The expense of the regatta was so great that nearly $4,000 was drawn from the reserve fund to meet the expenditures. It was decided at the meeting to hold the regatta for 1900 on July 4, 5 and 6. R. C. Lehmann was again elected on the Committee of Management. His associates are; Col. Frank Willan, W. Dalziel Mackenzie, H. T. Heward, A. Brakspear, J. Page, Lord Ampthill, W. Russell Griffiths, D. H. Maclean, F. I. Piman, Hon, W. J. D. Smith, M. P., and Frederick Fenner.

F. E. Facon, the erstwhile professional running champion of the world, was beaten by a yard and a half in a five-mile race at Limerick by M. O'Neill, the Irish champion, before a large crowd of Irishmen who en husiastically greated the winner. Tom Keane, the American, who scored two successive wins in Sheffield handicaps, has apparently described the running path for a while. He has left the hotel which he owned at Bristol to join the Hull football team, a sport that pays players big money on the other side.

Cornell's Rowing Candidates Begin Work.

call of Coach Courtney, about thirty candidates for seats in this year's Cornell 'Varsity crew reported this afternoon and commenced work on the rowing machine. While the number to re-port was not so large as in some years past, there was no end of good material. The 1902 crew, which acquitted itself so well last spring, was on hand to a man and took their places on the machine in the same or fer as they rowel then: Francis, stroke: Toohill, 7: Powley, 6: Petty, 5: Teagle (Kugler), 4: Bayer (Haskins), 3: Chase, 2: Brinkerhoef, bow, and Leng, coxswain. The youngsters, who last year were the pride of the Cornell Navy, showed that in spite of the long rest, they had not forgotten how to handle an oar, and they got a short but fast drill. Courtney will this year have the assistance of F. D. Colson, coxswain and captain of the '97 and '98 crews. Colson is greatly interested in Cornell aquatics and will make a competent assistant. With Builder Hoyle, Courtney is busily engaged in preparing a new shell for this year's 'Varsity crews. there was no end of good material. The 1902
